Task 2
Model Introduction

Question

> The spread of urban areas has led to deforestation and has caused many animal species to become endangered. Environmental groups are urging governments to protect these animals.
>
> What are the benefits of protecting animals? What can governments do to protect animals?

The number of animal species in danger of extinction has considerably increased over the last few decades. Therefore, it is vital that protection measures are taken before more animals become extinct. This essay will outline some benefits of protecting animals and suggest ways in which governments can do this.a
